

Sending Pastor Missionary Debriefing Form

Missionary Name: _____

Our purpose is to assess your spiritual, physical and emotional health; to gain a deeper understanding of your lives and ministries and determine how to better minister to you personally and as a church family

I am so pleased we have this time together. Let's start by asking...

What words describe your journey this last term? Explain that to me.

What have been the most positive aspects of this term?

When have you come closest to quitting this last term? Why?

Do you feel you've worked through it sufficiently to return?

What are some lessons you're learning along the journey?

I want to better understand your life on the field.

Describe day to day, week by week life in your home and ministry.

What aspects of ministry are you most excited about or satisfied with?

In what ways does this match your gifts and vision for ministry?

Do you anticipate any changes in ministry in your next term?

Give me a little insight about your team.

Which team members do you most respect and appreciate?

Do you feel you and your team are working well together?

Are you experiencing any unresolved conflicts? (Matt 5 & 18)

Tell me about your children.

Do you have any serious concerns for your children that I can join you in prayer about?

With all the pressures of ministry, consistency in our devotional life is a challenge.

What do you do for a personal quiet time and how regular are you in it?

Do you have family devotions? What do you do and how regularly?

Do you and your spouse pray together?

When does your furlough end?

Do you feel prepared to return to the field?

What are your greatest concerns as you think about going back?

Ministry can be lonely at times. I want to be sure you know I am here to help and support you. As we close, I want to ask you if there anything we haven't covered that you want to talk about?
